NPDB Extends Comment Period On Draft Guidebook

PIAA recently learned that the National Practitioner Data Bank (NPDB) has extended the comment period for its draft Guidebook, granted because of a delay in the publication of the Federal Register announcement about the review and comment period for the Guidebook. Any party that would like to comment on the revised Guidebook now has until January 31, 2014 to submit feedback. In light of this extension, PIAA will continue to compile member company feedback before it submits its formal comment letter. If you have questions or need additional information, please contact Mike Stinson, director of government relations, at mstinson@piaa.us or Divya Parikh, director of research and risk management, at dparikh@piaa.us.
